Jo's Notebook

For the first time in many a month, I took a few days off last week and visited with friends in Frankfort. The place never changes, except that the political rumor mill keeps right on churning out more outlandish prognostications per hour than Alladin's lamp can manufacture in a hundred years.

I think it's rather sad about the people who live in that political forest; they really have no idea how their particular candidate is faring out in the state, for most of them talk to each other, and naturally convince themselves that their particular candidate is winning hands down in every district in the Commonwealth.

Through the years I have found that it is this "can't see the forest for the trees" philosophy that oftentimes spells defeat for a candidate. Such a view was not the practice of the greatest political pro of all times, however. Former governor and senator Earle Clements made it mandatory that campaign workers get out in the hinterlands, ride busses, stand on street corners, or sit on the courthouse steps to hear what people were really saying about the campaign he was interested in.

Opponent For Hubbard?

One interesting tid-bit that I picked up in Frankfort should be rather interesting news for friends of Senator Carroll Hubbard of Mayfield, who undoubtedly will seek reelection next year on the coat-tails of the Combs-Carroll ticket for governor and lieutenant-governor, respectively.

I heard more than once, that a very prominent former Kentucky speaker of the house from the First District is considering opposing Hubbard for the state senate seat now held by the Mayfield attorney.

The fact that Hubbard may have an opponent isn't too startling, in view of his unwarranted attack on Lt.-Gov. Wendell Ford during the last session of the Legislature. But what is quite unusual is the fact that the "might-be candidate" is a close friend and business associate of former Governor Ned Breathitt, who is already campaigning vigorously for former Governor Bert T. Combs.

I could hardly believe the story even though it came from such an unimpeachable source. If true, that would make the most amusing and confusing campaign mix-up this neck of the woods has ever witnessed.

But then, it might be entirely possible that Carroll Hubbard may not run for reelection. According to a story that is being off-repeated by Hubbard's friends, the young senator has been promised, and we quote, "an amazing, an almost unbelievably important post" if Bert Combs is elected. I just wonder what it could be.

The possible appointment gives some credibility to the candidacy of the former speaker of the house, doesn't it?

Oh well, maybe it's all just another idle rumor started in the Frankfort mill.

My Son, My Son!

I drove over to Louisville on Sunday to spend some time with our son R. Paul, who is doing quite well as a news commentator with WKLO radio station. This week this young man, whom we love very much, starts covering the Jefferson County Courthouse for news for the radio station.

The assignment is a very sensitive one and pretty tough for a young fellow just getting started in the "big leagues." Our thoughts are with him constantly, and our prayers are that he will be equal to the task.

Small World . . . ?

And while visiting with R. Paul, his friend Linda Clark and I decided to take a little drive over to Clarksville, Indiana, in order to get a gift or two for Todd, our little grandson.

We found one of those giant K-Mart stores open and thought it the ideal place to find something unusual. I'm about those K-Mart Stores like I am a roadside market. I cannot pass them up, usually do not want a lot of what they sell, but there's so much of it, I can't resist the urge to bring out a bundle.

Well, coming out of the store I found I didn't have but a little change in my pocket,

TVA 23% Rate Increase Meets With Protest

An announcement by the Tennessee Valley Authority that soaring costs will force a 23 percent increase in rates has been greeted with angry response throughout the TVA region this week.

Bob Graham, manager of the Fulton Electric Plant Board—which buys TVA power for Fulton—called the increase "too high," and plans to join other power boards in the Mid South at a protest meeting next Monday in Nashville.

The new rate structures being considered by TVA to consumers in the region would take effect October 1st. A small automatic rise in TVA rates will take place August 1st under escalation provisions already included in existing rate schedules.

Congressional spokesmen for TVA, while lamenting the increase, pointed out that under the law, there was no choice: since 1959, TVA has been under congressional mandate to operate in the black, and coal prices are soaring to the point that an additional $115 million in revenue is necessary to overcome costs.

County Declared A Disaster Area

Congressman Frank Stubblefield announced this week that the Secretary of Agriculture has designated Fulton County a natural disaster emergency loan area due to the excessive rainfall last month.

This disaster designation means Fulton Counties may apply for Farmers Home Administration emergency loans by contacting their local farmers home office. Eligibility for emergency loans begins immediately and continues through June 30, 1971.

Fulton And Hickman Counties Qualify For EDA "Title I" Help

According to information reaching The News this week from the U. S. Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration, Fulton and Hickman Counties are among four in Kentucky and 35 in the nation that have been qualified as "Title I" areas and eligible for public works grants during the federal fiscal year which began July 1st.

A "Title I" eligibility is based on an unemployment rate of at least six percent for calendar 1969.

The EDA included a total of 986 national areas in its eligibility lists, of which the great majority, 951 areas, are listed as "Title IV" areas, making them eligible for additional help in the form of loans for public works and business development as well. Qualification in this category is based on persistently high unemployment rates or on median family incomes not higher than 40 percent of the national median.

Of the 986 areas qualified either for Title I or Title IV, Georgia has the highest number of counties in qualified areas with 71 and Kentucky is second with 63 counties qualified. Purchase counties qualified in the "Title IV" category include Calloway, Graves, Carlisle, Lyon, and Marshall.

It was announced today by Ron Laird, South Central Bell Telephone Company Manager, that delivery of new telephone directories is scheduled to begin this week. Delivery of the new books should be completed in a short time and all books should be delivered by Friday, July 31.

Laird stated that anyone not receiving a new directory by that date should contact the local telephone company business office.

Laird said, further, that all telephone subscribers should destroy their old directories since the new issue contains all new listings and number changes which have taken place since the last book was printed.

Giant Wickliffe Paper Mill Starts Its Wheels Turning

Production of the first bleached chemical woodpulp to be manufactured at Westvaco's new fine papers mill at Wickliffe is starting this week as the $80 million operation enters the start-up phase of its first major production unit.

According to Mill Manager R. L. Sharp and Pulp Mill Superintendent E. H. Schaefer, the pulp making facility is now in the process of initial shake-down operations. Production of the first bleached pulp should be ready for market by the latter part of this week.

During this initial production period, Mr. Schaefer noted, the 600 ton per day unit will be operated at a lower capacity. Until the paper machine starts up, he said, production from the pulp mill will be in the neighborhood of 350 tons per day.

The start-up of the paper machine, Mr. Sharp said, is scheduled for early autumn. At that time, the pulp mill will increase its capacity to the 600 tpd level. The machine, he noted, will consume 350 tons of pulp per day in the production of white business and printing papers; the remaining 250 tons of daily pulp production will be dried and baled for market. The first 500 tons of pulp fiber produced by the mill will be from mixed species of hardwood. The pulping operation will then switch to the production of 500 tons of pine fiber. When the total mill is fully operative, approximately 70 percent hardwood and 30 percent pine will be utilized in the production of the finished paper.

The basic operation of the pulp mill, Mr. Schaefer said is controlled by a computer. Elaborate feedbacks and computerized controls at every stage ensure that the right amount of chemicals will be added at exactly the moment needed, that the temperature

Rifles, Shotguns, Dynamite, Fire Bombs Terrorize Union City Plant

(From the Hickman Courier)

Three Hickman residents have been named as victims of "unlawful acts against working employees," in a suit filed against the union by the strike-bound Kinkadee Industries of Union City.

"These acts" stated R. E. Martin, manager of the plant, "include 10 instances of guns being shot into the homes or cars of employees, three instances of dynamite explosions near the homes of employees and five cases of damage to the automobiles of the employees."

The three local recipients of this vandalism were described in the list as:

"Melvin Price, Route 3, Hickman—rifle shot through front door and into wall; car window broken by soft drink bottle." "Robert Walker, Route 4, Hickman—paint thrown into three cars." "Kathryn Tucker, Hickman—windows in parents' home shot out by shotgun blasts, windows in Mrs. Tucker's house trailer shot out by shotgun."

Bob Tucker, whose wife Kathryn was named in the suit told the Hickman Courier on Tuesday that last Friday night three shots were fired into his premises, one into the home of his in-laws Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Greer, shattering a large front window and barely missing his father-in-law who was dozing in a chair near the window. The other shots were fired into the Tucker's trailer home. This is the second time shots have been fired at the Tucker's residences.

"I have spent 15 years in the service and I have never seen anything like this," Mr. Tucker, visibly shaken and frightened, told a Courier reporter. His wife is a non-union office employee of the company.

"For the past several weeks some member of the family has had to stay up all night with a shotgun trying to protect ourselves," he added. "My wife sits up with a shotgun when I am at work," he added.

Tears came to Mr. Tucker's eyes when he said that he has kept his two little girls in the back bedroom of the Greer home so that they might be protected from shots that might be coming from the front of the house.

"Last Friday, about 10 p. m., a shot came through the window, went through an open door in the house, and went into the little girls' bedroom and tore the wall paper off the wall," he said. "We all stayed awake all night, with guns at our side," he said.

Others from primarily Union City, included in the list are: Henry Ring, dynamite in yard; Wanda Sue Denson, bullet shot into daughter's car; Brenda Jarratt, Woodland Mills, shotgun damage to car parked in front of her home; Don Cline, windshield of truck broken by rock thrown from passing car; Edwin Dysart, window of car broken out the night before the car was almost destroyed by fire; Rebecca Smith, rifle shot through bedroom window.

Also the list includes: Charlie Williams, Union City, rifle bullet shot into house; Carol Thomas, Troy, dynamite thrown into front yard, fire bomb thrown at house, and shotgun fired over house; Ann Freeman, Troy, windows blasted out by shotgun; Margaret Walker, rifle shot into and through house damaging television and stereo sets; Mike Freeman and Dickie Freeman, assaulted at roadblock; and Rebecca Smith, Union City, rifle shot through bedroom window and rocks thrown through storm window. The alleged incidents, Mr. Martin said, have been reported to Union City police, Tennessee and Kentucky state authorities, The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), the Tennessee Bureau of Criminal Identification and the Sheriff's departments in both Obion and Fulton Counties.

Take A Free Test

A free computer programmer aptitude test will be offered at Murray State University Saturday, July 25.

Scheduled at 10 a. m. in Room 104 of the business building, Dr. Jules Harcourt, professor of administrative management in the School of Business at Murray State, will supervise the testing. He has advised anyone interested in a career in computer data processing to take the test.

No advance registration is necessary.

MEETING

The annual meeting of the Mid-South Division of Associated Milk Producers Incorporated, at the Fairgrounds Youth Center Building in Memphis on July 23rd from 11:00 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. will supposedly attract over 500 people from the Jackson Purchase area.

Shuck Quits As Hickman Fire Chief

J. W. "Buster" Shuck has resigned his position as Hickman's fire chief and the City Commission has appointed Cecil Williams, a former fire chief, to fill the position.

Shuck, who refused to sign the contract for his employment that he requested, has taken a job "on the river," that he has held previously. Shuck sold his interest in the Hickman Cafe, which he owned for several weeks.

Since Mr. Williams has accepted the appointment as a "live-in" chief, making him available for duty at all times, the position of assistant chief, formerly held by Bill Ramsey, has been abolished.

Mr. Ramsey resigned at the same time that Mr. Shuck's resignation was accepted. "Having a man live on the premises furnished by the city is a situation we have wanted for a long time," Joe Simpson, Hickman City Manager told the Courier. "Mr. Williams is an experienced employee and I think his residence on the fire house premises will solve a lot of problems we have had in the department," he added.

Farm Loans Are Available For Storage, Drying Equipment

Fulton County farmers can apply for loans to purchase grain storage and drying equipment any time of the year, said Roy Bard, Chairman of the Fulton County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

However, he suggests that farmers apply now for a loan, rather than wait, so the storage facility will be ready for the fall grain crop. Loans can be made for facilities that will store up to two years' eligible commodities produced on the farm, the ASC chairman said. To be eligible for a loan, a farmer must grow an eligible crop and he must show that he needs the proposed storage and drying equipment. Eligible crops are dry edible beans, peanuts, and sunflower seeds.

Storage facility loans repaid in four annual installments over five years with the first payment due one year after the loan is made. The current annual interest rate is 7½ percent. Loan applications and more detailed information on storage facilities and drying equipment loans are available from the Fulton County ASCS Office.

"The Effort's Okay, It's Just In The Wrong Place", Say Critics Of UK Editor

Since the question of whether or not to publish the 1969-70 Annual at the University of Kentucky has been the subject for many editorial comments and news stories during the past couple of weeks, we thought the following editorial comments would be of interest:

Says the current issue of the Kentucky Labor News:

PICTURE BOOK APPROACH . .

"University of Kentucky students have discovered poverty, and they are quite excited about it. They are using their 'annual' — or yearbook — as a catalog of pictures on strip-mining, water pollution, poverty scenes, and other social problems . . .

"This is no large step from the younger school boy's custom of writing 'Billie is a bad boy' on the sidewalk with a bit of chalk. In spite of the many effective ways that our university level men and women could change their world for the better, it is pointless for them to clutter their souvenir yearbook with their frustrations. How many will see the volume of ghetto pictures of Lexington? Except for the family and neighbors, these albums will have a small audience as they pile upon a bookshelf or in an attic or closet for a generation until they are opened to review the pages of postage stamp student photographs.

"Is the protest-laden yearbook the symbol of what these students have learned by their final year at the state university? What a pity!

"We are left to ponder whether the editors of the yearbook are as sincerely interested in ghetto problems as they are in displays of photographic skill. Do we witness an unfettered feeling from their rib cages for the poor and the downtrodden of Kentucky, or do we see only a bound display of the graphic arts on parade? We choose to believe that these impressionable young people are in truth discovering many of the injustices that the trade union movement has opposed for generations, but why are these students never at the right place at the right time, WHERE THE ACTION IS?

"Where were these students when their Legislature was holding hearings on the state's 65c minimum wage law a few months ago? We were there, as always, but we didn't see them around. If they are interested in poverty, they must seek the CAUSES of poverty!

"And, since they have discovered the ravages of strip-mining, where were the U. of K. students when hearings were held on a state mineral severance tax during the Legislature? We were there, but although a severance tax on coal could relieve the unjust tax burdens now suffered by the poor living in those ghetto houses in the yearbook, we saw no students from the university!

"Where were these concerned students when their state Legislature was holding public hearings on a generic drug bill to bring drug costs down for the aged and the poor? We saw Dr. Earl P. Sloane, a faculty member of the University of Kentucky school of pharmacy as he came to testify AGAINST the poor in favor of the big drug companies. But, the students of the University of Kentucky were in absentia, as they prefer to demonstrate their monumental passion for the poor by filling their yearbook with Kompassion by Kodak, all performed at a safe distance with the use of telescopic lens attachments and a haze filter.

"These students will not change the earth so much as a hill of ants with their yearbook. They must learn to change the system by PARTICIPATING in the system."

—Kentucky Labor News

Says the Louisville Courier-Journal:

"Scorning the traditional memory book format, Miss Soteriou has packed her pages with barbs of scorn for a society of war, poverty and strip mining, things which, she says, are of more interest to UK students than campus games, clubs and social life.

"She may be right. Collegians work hard these days at being grim, brightening only when they discover some new social sore to indicate a sickness in the body politic. And if war and strip mining turn on the students at Lexington we can only sigh for their lack of originality and hope they find happiness in their misery. Recent polls indicate that students today, like those of a generation ago, are primarily concerned with such mundane matters as sex and marriage, jobs and the future, with politics a poor third; but priorities at UK may differ.

"The only question seems to be whether Miss Soteriou has found her ideal medium. Yearbooks tend to be valuable only to the extent that they depict what can be found nowhere else—what happened on campus during a specific year. The agonies of the world no doubt concern the campus, and rightly so, but other media will record them better and more fully. A generation from now, when Miss Soteriou and her classmates take down the old yearbook to inflict their nostalgia on their college-bound children, its value will be measured by the extent to which it recalls the campus, not the world, of today.

"But if the yearbook fuss seems much ado about little, it serves to illustrate the troubling relationship between college administrations and their student publications. Today's students chafe at supervision that restricts their reporting and commentary.

"Perhaps the solution is to take student publications off campus, making them independent and self-supporting, and freeing the students from unwanted supervision and the college from unwanted responsibility. Deprived of income from the relatively unfair tradition of charging every student for a subscription to the campus paper, whether or not it is wanted, the student publication would have to be both sound and attractive to survive. And the administration would be relieved of responsibility for losses or lapses.

POET'S CORNER

THE LONG AGO

Oh! A wonderful stream is the river of time,
As it runs through the realm of tears,
With a faultless rhythm and a musical rhyme,
And a broader sweep and a surge sublime,
And blends with the ocean of years!
How the winters are drifting like flakes of snow,
And the summers like buds between,
And the years in the sheaf-so they come and they go,
On the river's breast, with its ebb and flow,
As it glides in the shadow and sheen!

Poet John Ciardi Cherishes this note received from a young admirer, whose name he thoughtfully refuses to disclose: "Dear Mr. Ciardi: I think your new book of poems for children is very funny. I read it in church. I thought it was much better than the sermon. P. S. please don't tell my daddy about the sermon because he's the minister."

FIRST ON THE MOON, by Neil Armstrong. First on the moon. The sound of the words themselves cannot convey their full meaning, the weight of wonder that they bear. The time, money, lives, will, knowledge—the total effort that went into putting man on the moon is beyond measurement. FIRST ON THE MOON: A Voyage with Neil Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. is the exclusive story of Apollo 11 and the always thrilling and historic personal experiences of the three astronauts who put man on the moon.

MURDER IN THE ROUND, by Dorothy Dunnett. The cosmopolitan partrist and sleuth, Johnson Johnson, comes to the assistance of Sarah Cassells, a 20-year-old English sparkler who becomes involved in jewel robbery, international intrigue and murder on the Balearic island of Ibiza off the eastern coast of Spain. This story has verve, suspense and absolute authenticity of setting, and several unexpected piquant ingredients.

NORTH TO DANGER, by Walt Morey, and Virgil Burford. This is the story of two Oregon boys who knocked about at one thing and another, including boxing and wrestling for traveling carnivals, they went to Alaska every year for the three-month summer season. They hunted the Kodiak bear, and sailed with the notorious Alaskan fish pirates—all of which is told in this book.

ONE LIFE, by Christiana Barnard. Who is CHRISTIAN BARNARD, and how will his own ONE LIFE be remembered when the first human heart transplant becomes a footnote to medical history? With rare candor and insight, the surgeon—and the man—speaks for himself. Direct and unsparing, he reveals his agonizing personal decisions, conflicts, mistakes, and hopes in this remarkable book.

THE SHIP THEY CALLED THE FAT LADY, by William M. Hardy. In this novel about a submarine tender and her crew, the author has told a tensely realistic story of danger and rapid action. After the Japanese attack on the Philippines, all but one of the tenders in Manila Bay had been ordered to leave for safer areas. The U. S. S. Rigel, old, ungainly, poorly armed, was chosen to stay behind, an expendable sitting duck, to service the submarines on war patrol. For five catastrophic months her officers and crew struggled to save their fat old lady and to strike back at the enemy. Here are their exploits.

THE UNFINISHED CLUE, by George Heyer. Even the beautiful June weather couldn't sweeten the atmosphere at Lady Billington-Smith's unfortunate house-party. Sir Arthur lost his temper whenever his son's fiancée, a Mexican dancer, appeared; flirted with another guest till her husband saw red; irascibly turned down his favorite nephew's request for a loan and, in between, bullied his wife unmercifully. That everyone there heartily wished Sir Arthur dead was no surprise. But who actually stabbed him as he sat writing at his desk, saw a mystery the police couldn't unravel.

CALICO PALACE, by Gwen Bristow. This is the story of men and women who lived in California at the time of the gold rush. But they were not the forty-niners. They were the people who were there when it all began. They were the forty-eighters. The forty-eighters had not come to California looking for gold. Why, then, were they there? Why had they left their own civilized communities to make a dangerous journey five or six months long, with nothing at the end of it but a mud-caked settlement out at the end of the world? Everyone of them had a different reason. Often they were reasons they did not talk about.

DEATH'S BRIGHT DART, by V. C. Clinton-Caddeley. Here, Dr. Davie, the estimable Cantabrigian, has the opportunity to clock his mettleless curiosity under the guise of detection. This comes about when the chief speaker of an international symposium on science is felled by strange means just at the time a blowpipe was discovered missing from a nearby exhibition of primitive weapons.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Estes Motor Company, on State Line near OK Laundry has begun operations selling the new Hudson, Essex, Willys-Knight and Overland cars. E. P. Estes is the President.

Trains No. 36 and 37, known as "Whiskey Dick", running between Cairo-Fulton and Fulton-Paducah, will be discontinued in the near future, announced I. C. Superintendent, H. W. Williams this week. However, he stated that service will be improved, because trains No. 1 and 2 will make local stops between Cairo and Fulton which they have not done; and that a coach will be put on the local, which it has not had, and a new train will run between Fulton and Paducah.

Due to the improvement of highways in different sections of the country (Fulton will soon be on a concrete north-south highway), and the increase in travel by automobiles, many railroads are discontinuing a number of local passenger trains. Several weeks ago the M&O discontinued a number of their passenger trains; it is understood that one of the two passenger trains now operating daily round-trip between Hickman and Dyerburg will soon be cut off.

Miss Evelyn Norris and Mr. Hanley Jamison of Fulton were married in Union City Saturday.

Letter From Washington

By

Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

The 50th Anniversary Dinner of the Women's National Press Club was a smash hit. President Nixon even cancelled a sail down the Potomac with some of his advisors so that all of them could come to this history-making dinner.

Mrs. Nixon and her two daughters and son-in-law were at the head table as were relations of all the former Presidents. There were Margaret Ann Hoover Brigham, Anna Roosevelt Halsted, former Justice Clark representing the Trumans, Mrs. Eisenhower, Senator and Mrs. Kennedy, and Linda Bird Johnson Robb and her husband. Also among the special head table guests was, and listed on the program as "Our Woman for All Seasons," Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt. Mrs. Longworth got the biggest applause—all 900 of the guests clapped and cheered when she was introduced so that she had to rise three times.

After dinner, there was a show called "Headlines, Datelines, By-lines" which showed slides of Washington personalities for the last 50 years and hit songs that were sung at other Women's Press Club Dinners. It was always humorous and sometimes very nostalgic and sentimental. Example: A picture on the screen of President Truman and President Eisenhower with two members of the Press Club singing "I remember it Well," as they reminisced on their terms as Presidents. Betty Beale sang "When I Begin to Be In" to the tune of "Begin the Beguine" for Richard Nixon in 1958. The repeat of Jackie Kennedy's song by Helen Thomas brought down the House.

The passage of Cooper-Church after seven weeks of debate was a tremendously emotional for its supporters. This amendment has attracted more notice all over the world than any other that John has introduced. Newspapers have told me that when they were in Asia, foreign correspondents from all countries and United States Embassy staffs stayed up the entire night due to the change of time to hear the vote, and the same was true in Europe. It was like an obstacle race with each new vote on the amendment one more jump until the final victory.

Yesterday, the House rejected a procedural amendment on Cooper-Church without debate by tabling it. The vote was 237 to 153. This vote was larger for Cooper-Church than expected as now a 35 vote change could swing it, according to the House members that dashed over to tell my husband the news. It now goes to a Conference between the Senate and the House. Senator Cooper is one of the Senate Conferees, but no matter what the outcome, the Senate has taken a historic step to establish the Constitutional balance of war-making powers between the Presidency and the Congress.

Two subjects affecting Kentucky came up in the Senate last week. On Wednesday, in the late afternoon, John learned from Senator Dole of Kansas, who is a member of the Agriculture Committee, that Senator Moss of Utah would offer a surprise amendment to the Agricultural Appropriations bill prohibiting funds for price support, inspection and grading and export of tobacco. John alerted all the Senators from tobacco states to be ready to defeat the amendment.

Senator Moss introduced his amendment at 6:00 o'clock. Senator Cooper and others explained to the Senate that the amendment would destroy the tobacco program. It was defeated by a vote of 52 to 15.

Yesterday, there was even a closer vote. An amendment was offered by Senator Cooper authorizing $100,000 for new research in horse diseases. This ran into violent opposition led by Senator Pastore of Rhode Island. He called the amendment a "Trojan Horse" and claimed it was only for rich race horses and would encourage gambling. Again, Senator Cooper explained the appropriation was for research on horse diseases for all horses and the amendment won 40 to 38.

Many Kentucky industries, including tobacco, coal, and horse breeding, have many problems and hot opponents in Congress so these two victories were important.

I am going to the State Department to see Senators Mansfield, Sparkman, Aiken and Cooper sworn in as Commissioners on the 25th Anniversary Observance of the Singing of the United Nations Charter. John dines at the White House tonight for this celebration.

President Nixon has asked John to see him on Monday. I wonder what he will discuss with him.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK

Fifteen candidates seeking political office in the forthcoming August election will participate in an informal discussion of campaign issues at 7:30 on Thursday, July 23, in the courtroom of the Weakley County Court House.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donald Jones

Bushart-Jones Nuptials Are Solemnized Here On July 17

The sanctuary of the First Christian Church of Fulton, Kentucky, was the setting July 17, 1970, for the marriage of Miss Nancy Lee Bushart and Charles Donald Jones.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Harry Lee Bushart of Fulton and the late Mr. Bushart. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Jones, also of Fulton.

The Rev. Ellis J. Veale officiated at the family wedding, assisted by the Rev. Bill Smalting.

A program of pre nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Doris Wiley, organist, and Miss Kay Veale, soloist. Musical selections included "All Glory, Laud and Honor Aria," Bach; "Wedding Hymn," Barnby; "Song Without Words," Mendelssohn; "Clair de Lune," Debussy; "Thus Will I Bless Thee," Sir Elcory; "Processional," Wagner; "Recessional," Mendelssohn. Miss Veale sang "Ich Liebe Dich," Grieg and "The Lord's Prayer," Malotte.

Against a background of greenery and candles the bride was given in marriage by her brothers, Alfred Lee Bushart and James William Bushart. Her bridal gown was formal-length ivory peau de soie, fashioned with re-embroidered Alencon lace applied in design over the entire empire Aline style, a portrait neckline, long sleeves with lace applique cathedral points, and pencil skirt with built-in train. The bridal bouquet was a cascading arrangement of ivory roses, miniature carnations and ivy, tied with satin ribbon love knots.

Mrs. John C. Jones was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of Dauphin green crepe, with ecru crocheted sleeves interwoven with bands of matching green. She carried a hand bouquet of roses and ivy similar to that of the bride.

Mr. Robert Thurman was best man.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bushart wore a sky blue long-sleeved sheath dress, with matching sleeveless coat and blue accessories. Mrs. Jones, the groom's mother, wore a sheath dress of Dianthus pink crepe with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. C. E. Holloway, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a Nile green and white summer knit, with matching accessories. All wore corsages of china pink glamelias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Bushart home on Fourth Street. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Richard Cardwell, Mrs. W. E. Burnette, Mrs. R. W. Bushart, II, Mrs. Robert Thurman, Miss Gail Bushart and Miss Joy Jones. Miss Mary Swann Bushart presided at the guest register.

After a southern wedding trip, the couple will make their home at 212 Central Avenue, Fulton, Kentucky.

Artists Are Invited To Exhibit Work

Artists and craftsmen from western Kentucky and Tennessee are invited to exhibit their work on August 15 and 16 at the Land Between the Lakes Arts Festival. The show, which is sponsored by the Murray, Kentucky, Art Guild, will be held between Center Station and Center Furnace in the Conservation Education Center (CEC) and will be open to the public from 9 a. m. to dusk.

Individuals or guilds are welcome to set up their exhibits on a first-come-first-serve basis. Although a few canopies will be provided, exhibitors are responsible for any equipment, such as tables and easels, which they may need.

Picnic areas are provided within the CEC for visitors and camping sites are located nearby. Light refreshments will be sold by the Murray Art Guild. In case of bad weather the show will be postponed to the weekend of August 22-23.

Barbara Parker Attends Stuart's Writing Course

Barbara L. Parker of Hickman, an English III teacher at Fulton County High, was one of 83 participants from 16 states in the second annual Creative Writing Workshop at Murray State University June 29-July 17.

Directed by noted Kentucky author and poet Jesse Stuart, the three-week workshop is designed to foster and encourage creative writing by affording students a close working relationship with professional writers.

Three other faculty members included: Mrs. Harriette Simpson Arnow of Ann Arbor, Mich., Kentucky-born novelist and historian; poet Lee Pennington, an instructor at Jefferson Community College in Louisville; and L. J. Horton, director of journalism at Murray State.

Students studied four writing forms—short story, novel, poetry, and articles—during the workshop.

A collection of 50 selections of student work from the first workshop in 1969 was published earlier this year in a 231-page book entitled "First Summer." It includes examples of each of the four writing forms.

Chestnut Glade Club Hears Health Department Nurse

The many services offered by the County Health Department free of charge to all persons in the county were named and explained by Mrs. Hope Crawford, the county health nurse, who serves the north side of the county, when the Chestnut Glade Club met at the home of Mrs. Fred Vaughan. She explained that it is hazardous for any person not to take advantage of these services. She also gave pamphlets to each one present, explaining the many services offered free by the County and by the State through the Health Department.

Mrs. Paul Reams gave the very inspiring devotional, using the topic, "A Kind Tongue," with James 3:1-10 and Matthew 12:33-37, as the scripture selections.

Plans were made for several members to attend the Achievement Luncheon at the student center at U. T. M. B. It was announced that six members had 100 percent attendance during the past year.

Plans were made and committees appointed for the annual picnic, which will be at the home of Mrs. Laverne Owensby August 20th at 2:00 p. m.

The recreation was directed by Mrs. Laverne Owensby, with Mrs. Danny Wheat the winner of the clever television commercial identification contest.

FACTS FOR THE HOME SEWER

—Sewage knows no season. Ready-to-wear can be bought only when stores have it in stock — the home sewer can make anything at home at any time.

—Forty-four million women in this country sew.

—Two hundred million patterns were sold in 1968.

—Home sewing fulfills a creative need.

—The home sewer can have designer patterns from leading couturiers.

—Today, the home sewer is especially confident. She has good machines and a wide supply of notions.

FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS Children Need To Learn About Money

Learning how to use and manage nickles and pennies while young helps them to manage dollars later on. A child needs a chance to use money, to decide and spend for himself. Parents should not tell him how to spend or save every penny. The child needs to be given only the amount he can handle at that age and then be given the opportunity to make his decisions as to how he will spend it. Parents need to explain about money and give guidance in the use of money but let the child experience the spending of money.

Top stitching by hand is a distinctive detail currently decorating dresses. Top stitching by hand is called "hand picking."

Machine baste the line to be hand picked for a better, easier and even job. On this stitching line, bring the needle through to the surface from underneath; take a back stitch over one stitch. Bring the needle forward and through the fabric about 1/2" from the back stitch. Count the number of stitches forward each time, and you will have even spaced hand picking. Continue with a back stitch, then forward until you have finished. Remove the machine basting if it shows. This decorative detail is usually done with contrasting colored thread on today's fashions. Use button-hole twist, heavy duty cotton or embroidery floss and as many threads as needed.

ENZYME DETERGENTS DANGEROUS?

Enzyme detergents may be dangerous to users over prolonged periods, says the FTC. A report from the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers concludes that there is no evidence that enzymes cause skin irritations. But other studies done in Great Britain indicate an abnormal rate of lung ailments among workers in enzyme-producing plants after prolonged exposure.

Patio Planning — The location and nature of a patio requires careful consideration. It is equal to an extra room when well-planned and well-constructed. Keep in mind the sun and the breeze. Most important of all is the size. A patio 10 feet by 20 feet is small to average, but can give added space if three to four feet of planting space is left between the house and the edge of the patio. Curved lines are more artistic and restful in appearance than the traditional rectangular in shape.

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

posted. Thanks for the clobber. It made my day.

Dear Ann Landers: Our teenage son had surgery last week and you wouldn't believe the questions people have asked me about the operation — even after I made it clear I didn't want to discuss it. Why do these clods think the intimate details of surgery are public property? How does one get across the idea that if the information isn't volunteered it is bad manners to pry?

Yesterday a neighbor bombarded me with some extremely personal questions. Finally I lost my temper and said, "I really don't want to talk about it, if you don't mind." With fire in her eye she snapped, "I ask because I am INTERESTED in the boy. I can't understand why you are so sensitive."

I ended up by apologizing but I felt like kicking her in the teeth. I was brought up to believe it is rude to put a person through the third degree about personal matters. How should

I deal with nosey folks?—T. N. T. Mother

Dear Mother: The best way to handle a None-Of-Your-Business type question is by asking a counter question: Example: "Why do you ask?" or "What on earth do you want to know for?" If the lunkhead ignores your question and continues to press, simply say, "Do you mind if we change the subject to something more cheerful?"

Dear Ann Landers: You once replied when asked if women were smarter about marriage than men, "Have you ever heard of a woman marrying a man for his shape?" I laughed when I read it, but it started me thinking.

What DO women look for when they want to marry? All around me I see lovely gals who are supporting loafers, boozers, and chasers. These men aren't particularly handsome or interesting or even decent, in some instances. Why would a pleasant, bright, successful woman who can support herself in style hook up with a jerk who is inferior to her in every way — and carry the financial burden besides? This is not a new wrinkle, Ann. I had two aunts who did it 30 years ago. Nobody in the family could figure it out. Can you? — B. Mused

Dear B.: Some gals are so terrified of spinsterhood they'll settle for anything. Heaven knows why, but the unmarried man is viewed as a glamorous, elusive gay blade, while the single woman on the lying side of 35 is considered an old maid. Of course this is rubbish. I've said it before and I'll say it again: Any woman can get married—if she sets her standards low enough.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope.

"SEEING IS BELIEVING"

What can you do when too much water "gets" your corn? A lot of Obion County farmers have returned to grain sorghum. If you'd like additional information on production, drying, and storage of grain sorghum, you can get it on Thursday, July 23, at the Field Day, which will be held at the Milan Agriculture Field Station of the University of Tennessee. The time will be 8:30 a. m. until noon.

Grain sorghum will not be the only crop covered by research at the Station. Cotton, soybeans, sunflowers, etc., will also be shown and discussed. Weed control, always a costly part of production, will be one of the features of the field day.

Then there are the insect pests that plague our crops: they will be on display, too, with suggested means for their control. University of Tennessee Experiment Station and Extension representatives will be there to explain the latest information on all the leading crops of this area.

Plan now to attend... Thursday, July 23, from 8:30 a. m. until noon. Oh yes, and invite a neighbor to attend, too!

THE LOCAL PEACHES

The local grown peaches are an extra good buy this summer and we have more peaches available than in any other county in Tennessee. If you have not put up peaches in your freezer or canned some, you had better make a visit to one of the Obion County peach orchards. Pick your own is very popular. This way you can pick your own, take them home and process the peaches without any delay. Of course, if you don't want to get hot picking the peaches or get the fuzz on you - for an extra price the peach growers will pick the peaches for you.

Letters To Editor

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
Frankfort, Kentucky 40601
July 9, 1970

Dear Mr. Westpheling:

Thank you for your expression of support for my action to prevent widespread destruction on the University of Kentucky Campus.

Of the thousands of communications I have received from all sections of the State, an overwhelming majority of Kentuckians - including students - concur with your position, which is most gratifying.

So long as I am Governor, I shall continue to carry out my responsibility to keep our public institutions free of the paralyzing effects of violence and disruptions, and the support of responsible citizens such as yourself is vital if they are to remain free, rational communities.

I deeply appreciate your thoughtfulness in writing me and apologize for the delay in replying.

Sincerely yours,

Louie B. Nunn

Governor

The increase in protein equivalent and the saving of feed will benefit the cattleman who is willing to follow recommendations. Urea should be added to silage for Dairy cows.

Feed grade urea should be added at the rate of ten pounds per ton of corn green chop as it is put in the silo. This will increase the protein equivalent of the silage by about 13 percent assuming the green chop contains about 30 percent dry matter. Feed grade limestone should also be added at the rate of ten pounds per ton of corn green chop. Research has shown that cattle gain more efficiently on urea treated corn silage when limestone is added.

Urea should be used in silages only by the cattleman who will be careful to properly use the materials. The safest use is in upright silos and especially where silo unloaders and auger-feeders are used. There is more chance of error in horizontal silos; but even here with proper handling the results will be rewarding.

The usual procedure in adding the materials is first to weigh several loads of silage to get a good estimate of load weights. Then uniformly spread the correct amount of materials over each load. Distribution is accomplished in the silo when forage is either blown into the upright silo or spread and packed in the trench.

Guidelines should be followed when feeding urea-treated silages. Have them tested by a forage testing laboratory for more efficient food use.

Sixty-Two Area Teachers Enrolled In MSU Workshop

Sixty-two teachers from Fulton and Hickman counties are enrolled in a federally-sponsored six-week workshop at Murray State University June 15-July 24 that emphasizes a re-examination of teacher attitudes toward students.

Dr. Jerome C. Hainsworth, associate professor of education and project coordinator, said the workshop is an exploration of the capability of a child with limited background to conceptualize and verbalize on a level with a child of a wider background.

Sponsored by a federal grant under Title I, the workshop is being conducted by the School of Education at Murray State for school districts in Fulton and Hickman counties.

According to Hainsworth, participants have also examined the idea of "student failure" and shifted the emphasis to capability.

"We are trying to take the fear of failure away from children by allowing students to have programs that are challenging, yet within their ability," he noted.

He said the ability to build concepts is based on a child's experiences with external references, adding that good audio-visual material is essential to help concept formation in children of limited background.

Among the other faculty members from Murray State who have been involved in working with workshop participants are Dr. Franklin Fitch, who has directed audio-visual workshop sessions, and Dr. Robert Alsop and Dr. Yancey Watkins, who have given the teachers new skills in identifying and working with students' reading development.

Title I coordinators helping in the development of the workshop are Mrs. Barbara Amberg of the Hickman County school district and Mrs. Julia Davis of the Fulton County school district.

They are engaged in an exercise on the telebinocular—an instrument to measure eye movements in reading. and R. Paul and Linda were just about as broke. No problem I thought, I had BankAmericard and Master Charge credit cards. Only one small matter here, the store had their own credit cards, wouldn't honor ours, and what's more wouldn't cash a check for anyone living more than 200 miles away from Clarksville.

Remember now, I'm in Indiana and it's Sunday.

The thought passed my mind of the chore it would be to take those items back to the shelves in that cavernous store. So, I decided to ask for the head-knocker, the store manager.

The gent was introduced as Joe Brown. He looked at my credit cards, my driver's license, my purchases (grandmother's stuff) and then asked where Fulton was. I complied with his request.

While he was giving me the third degree I told them we owned three newspapers in Fulton County. He asked me to name them. I said: "The Fulton News, The Fulton Shopper and the Hickman Courier."

Then he looked at me with amusement and said: "Hi Jo, how's everything in Fulton? Do you like owning the Hickman Courier?"

All of us nearly flipped. Joe Brown knew who I was when I went into his office, but he probably wanted to impress upon me to be a little more careful about having a reasonable amount of cash when I went into a strange store in a strange state.

Joe Brown is a brother of R. A. Brown of Fulton. Joe lived here for a long time, but hasn't actually lived here in about 20 years. He remembers when we bought the News, the Radio Station and read in the Courier-Journal about us buying the Courier. Once in awhile some of his folks send him a copy of the News.

He also new that R. Paul was with WKLO and they both decided to see each other, which is fine.

Is it a small world? Like a phone booth, almost.

One more thing about my Louisville trip. I was watching television Saturday night and happened to turn on the Louisville station that was carrying the Miss Indiana pageant.

You can imagine my shock when I saw our own Debbie May in the 15 finalists, the five finalists and then the queen of them all, Miss Indiana. Now, Debbie will be going on to the Miss America Pageant, and to the top title of all Miss America.

If she should win the top prize in Atlantic City, it will be a great time in the old town if the new Miss America, Debbie May, could come to relinquish her crown as the International Banana Festival princess.

What made me nearly climb out of my tree while watching the broadcast was when the announcer asked her what was her most exciting experience in life.

Said she: "Being the International Banana Festival Princess at Fulton, Ky., and my trip to Ecuador, etc. etc." She was g-r-e-e-e-e-a-a-a-t.

Her Dad Hollis, called me up at about two a. m. in Louisville Sunday to talk about that gal of his. And she is certainly a wonderful conversation item.

GIANT

(Continued From Page One) will be maintained at the correct degree, and that the circulation of liquid and movement of the wood chips will proceed steadily. The pulp mill, he noted, is a 24-hour around the clock operation, seven days a week. Other production operations at the mill are also on a 24-hour schedule.

The actual heart of the pulp mill facility, Mr. Schaefer continued, is the Kamyr continuous digester. This unit processes both hardwood and pine chips at different times on a continuous basis. After the pulp has been produced and washed, it is bleached white in five stages to a high level of brightness.

The Kamyr digester, Mr. Schaefer said, is vastly more efficient than the batch-type digester used in most older pulp mill operations.

In a digester, he said, the wood chips are "cooked" under pressure with a chemical solution in order to separate the wood cellulose fibers from the cement-like lignin. The older system cooked, and released under pressure, one batch at a time, while the Kamyr system processes the pulp on a continuous basis.

In addition to being a more efficient unit, the continuous digester also helps to considerably reduce the "cooking cabbage" odor which is characteristic of kraft-type pulp mills.

While the new digester, together with a black liquor oxidation system and a waste gas incinerator, work to reduce the overall odor levels, he noted, there is no known system on the market today which can completely eliminate this harmless but objectionable element.

When the pulping operation reaches full capacity, Mr. Schaefer said, it will require approximately 2,600 tons of either hardwood or pine each day. The mill has been building a large inventory of this material in its woodyard since last summer.

Mr. Schaefer also noted that the employment level in his department consists of 68 persons of the total 350 to be employed at the mill.

Construction at the Westvaco facility was started in the late summer of 1967.

ONE MILLION DOLLARS

The Management of the Jackson Purchase Production Credit Association announces that One Million Dollars in additional loan funds have been made available to Fulton County Farmers for the next year — August 1970 to August 1971.

These Additional loan funds will be available to all farmers, whether or not they have ever had a PCA loan. They will be available for all purposes that the PCA system lends for. This one million dollars is in addition to the money already being made available to farmers in this county through PCA.

PCA LOANS

Can be made for any of
THESE PURPOSES

- 1 Buy equipment — erect farm buildings — buy land — buy breeding and stocker cattle and hogs. Modernize and Build Dairy operations.
- 2 Build hog farrowing, nursing and finishing facilities.
- 3 To convert a cropping operation on hill or rolling land back to a cattle operation which may mean land treatment, new fences, wells, ponds and barns as well as cattle.

- 4 To finance part-time farmers on a basis that will raise the farm portion of their income.

- 5 To finance young farmers AS THEY BUILD A PROFITABLE FARM BUSINESS.

- 6 For farm grain storage — update farm water systems, build farm houses — finance custom operators who furnish services to farmers.

- 7 This ADDITIONAL credit being available may mean that ALL farmers in this area need to analyze their farming operations and see if there is a need for additional borrowed capital. Borrowed capital, with good management, can be used profitably. (It takes money to make money!)

These days, the economic climate has as much to do with farm productivity and profitability as the rain and the sun you can't control.

But you can control your economic climate, especially with help from your local PCA man.

"Economic" isn't just a two-dollar word for money. It implies the application of sound principles to make your farm produce the kind of living conditions you and your family should enjoy.

That's where we figure in. We lend money to farmers who consider it a working tool that will produce a needed benefit. Because we're farmer-owned and farmer-operated, and because we're businessmen with more than 35 years' experience in making money work on farms, we can provide the unique kind of help to improve your farm's economic climate.

Not just the dollars, but the know-how to make them work hard; the understanding of your problems to gear repayment to your farm's capability to produce. Let's talk about it.

SCD Supervisors Meet In Crittenden County

MARION, Ky. — The annual summer meeting for supervisors of Area I Soil Conservation District was held on the George McKinney farm in Crittenden County. McKinney received the Tom Wallace Forestry Improvement Award in 1969.

Sixty persons attended from Ballard, Caldwell, Calloway, Carlisle, Christian, Crittenden, Fulton, Graves, Livingston, Lyon, McCracken, Marshall and Trigg counties. John Ray, Graves County, is president.

McKinney conducted the tour on his tree farm. He produces pine trees, post, pulpwood and saw timber.

"The forestry business can be profitable," said McKinney. "I bought this farm a few years ago for $40 per acre. I have produced $4,000 per acre on my Christmas trees."

McKinney said Christmas trees must be pruned correctly and at the right time. "Last year I had two men to work for me for two days of pruning. I thought I had taught them the correct way to prune. In these two days, they did $2,000 damage to my trees by incorrect pruning."

The group concluded the meeting at Lake George where lunch was served.

Multiple Births

LONDON — England and Wales had 8,783 multiple births in 1968—including one set of sextuplets and one of quadruplets.

Only two of the sextuplets, two boys, were born alive, but all four of the quadruplet girls were born alive.

Of the total multiple births, 8,697 were twins and 84 triplets.

MUSEUM BOUND—Juble Henderson, Fulton artist who for years has not only painted pictures of birds but has carved miniature birds from wood, has donated four prints to the Obion County Museum. His bird prints, along with a number of carvings, will be displayed at the museum during the Obion County Fair. Mr. Henderson, restricted to his bed for years, was the subject of a Tennessee story several months ago.

State's Real Tourism Test To Come In '74

The real test of Kentucky's tourist trade will come with "Festival Kentucky '74," Kenneth F. Harper, Kentucky commissioner of Public Information, told Paducah Rotary Club members Wednesday afternoon.

Harper said the state will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the founding of Harrodsburg, the first town west of the Alleghenies, and the 100th running of the Kentucky Derby in 1974.

"We hope 1974 will be a season of action from border to border, for tourists and Kentuckians alike," Harper said.

"Festival Kentucky '74" will be the theme for the year-long promotion of Kentucky's tourism industry.

"This festival is made to order for the Paducah area," Harper said, noting the success of the Paducah Summer Festival last weekend.

The idea for the festival came from private enterprise, Harper said. The Kentucky Travel Council, a division of the Chamber of Commerce, first suggested it, he noted.

"The 1970 general assembly provided the vehicle for this celebration," Harper said.

Harper referred to Senate Bill 283, which established the Kentucky Historical Events Commission, which will plan the 1974 celebration and the state's participation in the 1976 national bicentennial celebration.

Harper noted that two Paducahans were appointed by Governor Louie B. Nunn in June to serve on the commission. They are Mrs. Leo Keller and Fred Paxton.

The commission members will begin their work with a three-part feasibility study by economic research associates as their guide, Harper said.

Harper said the Lake Barkley-Kentucky Lake region has been suggested as the location for a summer-long "Festival of Lakes" in 1974. He urged private businessmen to "begin planning today" for the festival in order to make it a success.

"The state is participating in the festival, but it is largely a private enterprise project," Harper said.

He noted that tourism is a $510 million industry in Kentucky and provides tax money for hospitals, schools, roads and child welfare services throughout the state.

Harper, a native of Covington, served as assistant commissioner of the Department of Child Welfare from May, 1968 until January 9, 1970, when he was appointed to his present post.

Sparks Calls For Student Involvement

Dr. Harry Sparks, president of Murray State University, called Wednesday for "meaningful involvement" of students in today's colleges and universities.

He spoke at a meeting of the Paducah Rotary Club.

"Education is a continuous thing and education is achieved through experience," Dr. Sparks said.

Student involvement and activism are important to students, he said. Dr. Sparks pointed out Murray State University's recent Earth Day activities as an example of utilizing students in a worthwhile endeavor. He said the purpose of Earth Day was to involve students from all academic disciplines, not just science and agriculture students only.

Dr. Sparks said today's students are more aware of history and also the best-informed generation of students, but they have had less experience in decision-making than any other group.

Education, he said, as preparation is not a sound educational philosophy; education must be concerned with the present. As an example, Dr. Sparks said he taught history backgrounds, that is, he started with current history and proceeded from that point to the beginning of ancient history.

Vocational education is using effectively the problem-solving technique in teaching, Dr. Sparks said. He added it would be wise or other academic areas to adopt this same teaching technique. Dr. Sparks emphasized the importance of relating past experiences in a meaningful way is a learning technique. He indicated language study as an example of using learning as a meaningful experience.

There needs to be a move to cooperative or a program in which a student studies and works at the same time, Dr. Sparks said.

Government In Move To Aid Area Farmers

Seven West Tennessee counties, including Obion, and Fulton County, Ky., have been designated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as eligible for emergency loans to farmers as a result of severe rainfall last month.

The action was revealed this morning in Washington to Sen. Howard H. Baker and U.S. Rep. Ed Jones whose offices issued a joint statement telephoned to The Messenger.

In addition to Obion and Fulton counties, the announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin includes the counties of Weakley, Lade, Dyer, Gibson and Lauderdale.

Senator Baker and Representative Jones also asked Secretary Hardin to declare a state of emergency in the West Tennessee counties, pointing out that damage to crops due to the excessive rainfall had been estimated at more than $14.5 million. They also said an early survey showed that an estimated 24,100 acres of cotton were destroyed, along with 32,500 acres of corn, 113,000 acres of soybeans and 4,600 acres of wheat. These figures later were expanded considerably as reports from the various counties were updated.

As a result of the disaster area designation, the Farmers Home Administration will make low-interest loans available to farmers who have suffered losses from this natural disaster and who are unable to obtain credit from other sources.

Representative Jones and Senator Baker explained that loans will be made for essential farm operating and living expenses and to repair real estate damage. Loans, however, will not be available to refinance secured debts but they may include funds to pay not more than one year's interest on debts secured by essential real estate and equipment. The loans also may include money to pay reasonable amounts to other creditors for depreciation on farm equipment under prior loans.

Farms Take Half Of Nation's Land

WASHINGTON—Our 50 states have a total area of nearly 2.3 billion acres, with about half of this taken up by farms. Forests and rangeland take about a third, and parks and wastelands, such as the Western deserts, about a sixth. The rest, only about 55 million acres, or a mere 4 per cent, is used for cities, towns, roads and airports.

Drainage Work Given Boost

West Tennessee's fight against a lawsuit designed to halt drainage and flood control work on the Obion and Forked Deer Rivers received a heartening boost Monday afternoon when the U. S. Justice Department announced it would intervene in behalf of the drainage work.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Fred D. Thompson said the Justice Department will file a motion in U. S. District Court in Nashville seeking the dismissal of the lawsuit filed by four Nashville sportsmen earlier this year.

Mr. Thompson said the government will contend the U. S. Corps of Engineers has substantially complied with the 1970 National Environmental Policy Act under which the suit was filed "without going into the merits of whether the project should have been or not."

The Nashville sportsmen are members of two private hunting clubs in Obion County and the suit charges the drainage work already has damaged a large area of the wildlife habitat in Northwest Tennessee and when completed could destroy thousands of acres of natural environment for waterfowl and other wildlife.

However, following disastrous floods last month which did an estimated $7 million in damage to crops in this area, the City of Union City announced plans to seek to intervene in the lawsuit in an effort to permit the drainage work to continue.

Meantime, however, the Engineers were ordered to cease all work on the project pending a July 29 hearing by U. S. District Judge Frank Gray Jr.

Additionally, more than 100 farmers and landowners met last week at Trenton and voted to retain an attorney to fight the lawsuit, contending it is vital that the flood control project be continued.

"Wildlife habitat is important but it does not take precedence over human habitat," the farmers and landowners said in a statement.

"We certainly do not feel that we ought to have our crops destroyed by floods, our timber killed, our livestock subjected to disease and drowning and our roads blocked and washed away so that a group of affluent sportsmen can shoot a maximum of four ducks a day for a few days in a year."

NEARS COMPLETION—Nearing completion at the University of Tennessee at Martin is the $2 million Fine Arts Building. The two-story, air-conditioned facility contains 48,000 square feet of floor space and will house the departments of music, drama and art. One of its main features is a modern stage—adaptable to both proscenium and theater-in-the-round—and one of the largest auditoriums in West Tennessee. A central gallery will serve as a foyer for the theater and as a display area for art exhibits.

New Lake Dedicated In Friday Ceremony

"I never knew a man who knew his people better or loved his people more," Governor Ellington told a large crowd which gathered Friday afternoon for the dedication of Ellington-Everett Lake near Woodland Mills.

The governor was referring to the late Rep. Robert A. 'Fats' Everett who with Gov. Ellington helped to initiate the Reelfoot-Indian Creek Watershed program more than 10 years ago in a meeting at Walnut Log.

Many local, state and federal officers and officials were on hand for the dedication of the first of 15 watershed structures which are to be constructed to reduce siltation damage to historic Reelfoot Lake.

The governor and Mrs. Lella Everett, mother of the late Rep. Everett, unveiled the bronze plaque naming the impoundment Ellington-Everett Lake.

Also on hand was Congressman Ed Jones who briefly addressed the gathering. Rep. Jones said until Rep. Everett was elected to Congress there was no apparent cure for the siltation condition which was threatening Reelfoot Lake. He said it was Rep. Everett and Gov. Ellington who first saw that something could be done and then organized the citizens to get it done.

In his brief talk Gov. Ellington lauded Rep. Everett for his work in Congress.

Then he asked, "Which is the most important -- the man or the man's accomplishments?"

"The important man goes after the important projects and accomplishes things that are important to his community."

"We are here because that was the kind of leader 'Fats' was," the governor said.

He then recalled when he and 'Fats' were living in the Her-

KEEP IT CLEAN by Virginia M. White

DEAR MRS. WHITE: All my lovely Spandex garments are turning yellow. What can I do to restore them? MRS. N. S.

DEAR MRS. N. S.: To restore Spandex fill basin with very hot water. Add 1/4 cup liquid dishwashing detergent, three-fourths cup NON-chlorine bleach, and 1/2 cup Super Cleaner. Immerse garments, allow to stand 1/2 hour. Squeeze through solution and launder by hand. Rinse thoroughly; roll in towel to remove excess water. If dried out of doors, NEVER DRY IN SUN. Repeat this procedure until whiteness returns.

DEAR VIRGINIA WHITE: A few months ago I replenished my linen supply with new towels and bedding. After only a few washings, they have turned rather dingy-looking. What can I do? BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED: The problem you describe is due to detergent residue left in the clothes from previous washings. To remove this build-up put freshly laundered clothes in washing machine. Fill washer with water, add 1 cup Miracle White Powerizer Super Cleaner. DO NOT ADD DETERGENT. Run through cycle. Suds that appear are the result of detergent and dirt which remained in the clothing. For future washings use 50% less detergent and 1/4 cup Super Cleaner.

SPECIAL TIP: To make ironing smoother and easier put a sheet of aluminum foil between the pad and cover.

Murray Clothing Firm Is Target Of Thieves

MURRAY, Ky., Over $5,000 worth of merchandise was taken from a men's clothing store in downtown Murray Thursday night.

Thieves apparently entered across the opening to which a Graham-Jackson, on the square rope was tied.

The Masonic Hall, located on the second floor of the Wallis Drugstore building, adjacent to Graham-Jackson, was also entered, but nothing was reported missing.

A city official said the break-in was discovered Friday morning when personnel opened the store for business. A skylight in the roof of the building had been cut through which the thieves gained entrance. A pipe had been placed across the opening to which a Graham-Jackson, on the square rope was tied.

The thieves apparently lowered worth of suits, shirts, and ed themselves into the store on slacks, sometime late Thursday the rope, and made their get-away through a back door. Several suits, miscellaneous clothing and a suitcase, were piled near the door.

A spokesman for Graham-Jackson estimate that 100 suits were taken in the break-in.

Window panes were broken in the Masonic Hall, but apparently nothing was stolen.

Tennesseeans Charged With Grand Larceny

Warrants charging two Paris, Tenn., men with grand larceny have been issued here by County Judge Dick Castleman.

Earl W. Wiley, 33, and Larry Barnes, 28, are being held in the Henry County, Tenn., jail in Paris following their arrest earlier this week.

Wiley and Barnes were stopped by Tennessee authorities for a routine check, and it was discovered their pickup truck contained $10,000-$15,000 worth of merchandise.

Wiley reportedly fled the scene, but was tracked by bloodhounds to a trailer park, where he was found hiding under a bed in his trailer.

J. B. Hood, general superintendent for the Daniel Construction Co., identified some of the merchandise as having been stolen from the Ingersoll-Rand construction site southeast of Mayfield.

The stolen merchandise consisted of carpentry tools and other construction materials.

Judge Castleman said the pair may not be returned to Mayfield for trial, since it is believed they are wanted in Tennessee on other charges.

No attempt has been made so far to extradite the two Tennesseeans.

Hog Cholera Hits Weakley

State and federal quarantines for hog cholera have been placed on a portion of Weakley County, effective immediately.

Included in the quarantine zone is the north central section of the county where an outbreak of hog cholera has been confirmed.

The quarantine zone is an area bordered on the south by Highway 22, on the west by Highway 45E, on the north by the North Fork of the Obion River, and on the east by Highway 118.

Announcement of the joint quarantine was made by Dr. C.
E. Kord, state veterinarian, and Dr. Wiley W. Bird, federal veterinarian in charge for the U.S.

Department of Agriculture's
Animal Health Division.

The veterinary officials point out that no feeder pigs or breeding swine can be moved interstate from an area number federal quarantine for hog cholera.

Slaughter hogs can be moved interstate only if they are inspected on the farm of origin before shipment and are shipped directly to slaughter. Such slaughter hogs must be accompanied by a special certificate authorizing swing movement from a quarantine area. These certificates are available from state and federal animal health officials.

Pork products can be moved interstate from a federally quar-antined area only if produced at a slaughter plant which operates under standards for federal meat inspection.

The Weakley County quarantine contains similar provisions which regulate intrastate shipment of hogs from the quarantined area.

Dr. Kord and Dr. Bird say the quarantines were placed because an outbreak of hog cholera has been confirmed in the north central portion of Weakley County. This represents the first case of hog cholera in the state for a period of over four months.

The quarantine action was taken as a part of the stepped-up campaign to wipe out this costly swine disease. The quarantines will be removed just as soon as the threat of disease spread has been eliminated.

"Stamping out" activities against hog cholera involve prompt and complete disposal of all infected and exposed herds.
Cooperative state federal indenmity payments are made to farmers whose animals must be destroyed because of hog cholera.

Producers can aid the eradication effort by promptly reporting any sickness in swine to their veterinarian, county agent or animal health officials.

ings.
